Art Unit: 3629

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3,5-9,11-14,16-21,23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cogan (2002/0138350).

For claims 1,5,6,8,9,11,13,16,17,19,20,21,23,24, Cogan discloses a method of ordering food using a wireless device. A location 20 is provided for the transmission of the order using the wireless device. This location is the claimed "hot spot". When the data is transmitted, it is then detected that a wireless device is present. The wireless device has transmitted the menu desired and the restaurant prepares that same menu. The wireless device is used to place the order. With respect to the limitation of "sending the menu" to the wireless device, this is done when the menu application 10 is loaded into the wireless device.

For claims 2,14, the customer is charged money for the order.

For claim 3, clearly the menu of a restaurant is based on those items that are available. You cannot sell what you do not have.

For claims 7,18,25, if no preferences are available and no transmission is sent, then one would need to use the customary manner of ordering, which is verbal.

For claim 12, the user preference of what food they want to eat is a dietary need. The food they order is needed by them to eat and this constitutes a dietary need as claimed.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 4,10,15,22, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cogan.

For claims 4,10,15,22, not disclosed is the sending of an order identification to the wireless device. Gogan discloses the use of a computer as the wireless device. The claimed order identification is considered to be a receipt. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide an electronic receipt for the purchase, where the receipt is sent to the wireless device.
